

PEARY IN HIS HOME STATE

Continuous Ovation by Citizens of Maine—Explorer Turns Over Important Papers to President of Peary Arctic Club.

Portland, Me., Sept. 23.—From the moment Commander Peary crossed the international boundary line at Vanceboro, the eastern terminus of the Maine Central railroad, shortly after eight o'clock this morning, until he arrived at Portland at 7:55 tonight, his reception by the citizens of Maine amounted to a continuous ovation.

Conference with Peary Arctic Club President.

At Bangor important papers on his North pole expedition were turned over by Commander Peary to Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard, president of the Peary Arctic Club, following a brief conference. Commander Peary stated that the papers have been taken to General Hubbard's summer residence at Bar Harbor to be examined by General Hubbard there and that possibly he (Commander Peary) will be taken into confidence at Bar Harbor next Tuesday or Wednesday, if it is deemed necessary.

Peary's Case Placed in Gen. Hubbard's Hands

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 23.—Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard, president of the Peary Arctic Club, held a conference today at Bangor, with Commander Peary, and returned here tonight bringing with him some of the preliminary data and records which are to be used to maintain the position of the explorer in the Cook controversy.

These records will be carefully considered within the next few days and General Hubbard and Commander Peary will confer here either next Sunday or Monday. This conference may result in an announcement making public any information in the possession of Commander Peary concerning Dr. Cook.

How He Saved the Circus.

Willis Cobb, the circus man, tells this story:

Years ago he was traveling through the south with a wagon tent show and the press agent among other glowing accounts of "what's coming," announced a "herd of 20 camels from the sandy desert of Arabia."

When the show reached town, instead of twenty, there was but one sickly camel. Some of the country newspapers paid no attention to this slight discrepancy, but when Cobb entered the office of a Georgia country editor he was made enough to fight.

"I saw your parade, sah," said he, "and you lied to our people. I've a good mind to roast you. Where are your 20 camels you made my paper say you've got in your show?"

"I tell you how it was," explained Cobb. "When we passed the swamp on the way here it was full of alligators and without the slightest warning they leaped upon the bank and devoured all but one of the camels. We put up a brave fight, but it was no use."

The editor gazed at Willis a couple of minutes and then said: "You're a good one. You ought to be a Georgia editor. Come to my house to dinner today. I want to introduce my wife to the biggest liar on earth. She'll be glad to meet you."—Cleveland Press.

In the Rubbish Box.

When the American Press Humorists were at East Aurora one of the members took occasion to pay a tribute to the helpful and lovable humor of Robert J. Burdette, pastor emeritus of the organization, now an invalid at his home in Pasadena.

The remarks of the visitor were followed by the relation of a Burdette story by Elbert Hubbard. The latter said that when Burdette visited the Roycroft place and was being shown about the premises, his attention was attracted by a large box in the yard near the chapel, labelled "Rubbish."

Without a word the California humorist turned back and with great gusto began thrusting his umbrella into the contents of the receptacle.

"What in the name of the bearded prophets are you doing, Burdette?" Hubbard anxiously inquired.

"Why, I'm trying," replied the almost breathless Bob, "to find that unpublished manuscript stuff I sent you months ago for the 'Fra.' That's all."—Plain Dealer.
